The Midnight Train

A Stage drama by Alex Carter

Aurora Theatre Company
Spring 2026 Production

ABOUT THE PLAY

Midnight Train is a story about choices, second chances, and the journeys that shape our lives. Set in a quiet railway station late at night, the play follows several strangers whose paths unexpectedly cross while waiting for the last train of the evening.

As the night unfolds, secrets are revealed, friendships form, and each character must confront the decisions that brought them to this moment. The station becomes more than just a place of travel—it becomes a turning point where lives change forever.

Through moments of tension, humor, and reflection, Midnight Train reminds us that sometimes the most important journeys are the ones we never planned.

DIRECTOR'S NOTE

When I first encountered the script for Midnight Train, I was immediately drawn to its atmosphere and emotional depth. The play captures the quiet moments between people—the conversations, memories, and revelations that occur when life slows down for just a moment.

Our goal with this production was to create a stage world that feels intimate and real, allowing audiences to connect deeply with each character's story. I am incredibly proud of the dedication and creativity shown by our cast and production team.

Thank you for joining us tonight and supporting the performing arts.

— Michael Turner, Director

CAST LIST

Sarah Michelle as Eleanor Brooks

David Chen as Thomas Gray

Robert Alvarez (Station Master)

CAST BIOS

Eleanor Brooks — Sarah Mitchell
Sarah Mitchell is honored to portray Eleanor Brooks in Midnight Train. Sarah has performed in numerous stage productions including The Silent City, Autumn Lights, and Crossing Paths. Known for her expressive performances and emotional depth, she enjoys portraying characters who undergo powerful personal journeys. Sarah trained in dramatic arts at the Toronto Performing Arts Conservatory and continues to work in both theatre and independent film. She thanks the cast, crew, and her family for their continued

Thomas Gray — David Chen
David Chen is thrilled to bring the character of Thomas Gray to life in Midnight Train. David has appeared in several regional theatre productions including Echoes of Tomorrow and The Hidden Door. His acting style focuses on exploring the psychological layers of complex characters. Outside of theatre, David enjoys writing short screenplays and studying cinematic storytelling. He would like to thank the director and creative team for the opportunity to be part of this production.

Station Master — Robert Alvarez
Robert Alvarez is excited to play the Station Master in this production of Midnight Train. Robert has been involved in theatre for over a decade, performing in both dramatic and comedic roles. Some of his past performances include The Final Signal, City at Dusk, and Letters from Home. Robert enjoys roles that help shape the atmosphere and tension of a story. He dedicates this performance to the hardworking backstage crew who make live theatre possible.

Production Team

Director - Michael Turner

Lighting Designer - Rachel Kim

Costume Designer - David Lopez

Stage Manager - Emma Johnson

Special Thanks

The production team of Midnight Train would like to extend sincere gratitude to everyone who helped bring this performance to life. We are especially thankful to the Aurora Community Arts Centre for providing rehearsal space and technical support throughout the process. Their commitment to supporting theatre and the performing arts made it possible for our cast and crew to develop this production.

We would also like to thank our volunteers, technical staff, and the friends and families of the cast for their encouragement and support during rehearsals and performances. Your dedication, patience, and enthusiasm played an important role in making this production possible, and we are grateful to share this experience with such a supportive community.

Support the Arts in Our Community

Aurora Café
The perfect place before or after the show

Located just steps away from the theatre, Aurora Café offers fresh coffee, pastries, and light meals in a warm and welcoming atmosphere. Show your theatre ticket and receive 10% off your order tonight.